Horror bleach attack on teen

BY RAYMOND BROWN & JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

FAMILIES are horrified after a thug held a shard of glass to a teenage girl's throat and forced bleach in her mouth in an attack in Haverhill.

A manhunt has been launched for the "despicable" offender who struck in Leather Lane.

The man, who was wearing a hooded top, wrenched at the 18-year-old victim's handbag and pulled her backwards against a fence.

He then pushed the glass against her neck and stomach, cutting her skin in the terrifying assault.

And in a sick twist on street attacks, the man took a bottle out of his bag and squirted what is believed to be bleach into his victim's mouth.

But the cowardly attacker, who struck at about 9.45am on Monday, was disturbed by a noise behind him and the girl managed to run home for help.

Cllr Les Ager, of Haverhill Town Council, was shocked and appalled by the "disgraceful" attack on a young woman in the dark.

Staff at a new YMCA branch in the High Street are inviting people to not only take a look round the store but donate any unwanted clothes and furniture as well.

A spokesman for the store said: "We did have a store that closed down because we had lost the lease on it."

"We have since opened a new shop and want to let everyone know we are back in town and we are taking donations.

"We will take in clothing, bric-a-brac, DVDs, books, CDs, furniture and electrics."

"We do a free collection for furniture so if you would like to donate, call the store with details of any furniture."

"We are at 42 High Street which is next to Henderson's newsagents and near the arts centre."

Dakar-bound duo stop off in Rabat for steak

A DUO have made it 4,500 kilometres of the way to East Africa in a 15-year-old Citroen Saxo to raise funds for charity.

Mark Muggeridge, managing director of the Silver Pigeon courier company on Haverhill's Deltech Estate, and company driver Dan Bishop, 31, embarked on the Banjul Challenge on December 27.

The pair headed for a launch party in Spain on New Year's Eve before travelling across North Africa to Morocco.

and hoping to get their visas from the Mauritanian Embassy today so they could carry on with their journey.

Mr Muggeridge, 42, who lives in Haverhill, said: "It's something I have always wanted to do. At the last minute, we decided: 'let's go for it' and here we are now in Africa cooking on an open fire and frying onions in a small tin."

If all goes according to plan, the pair will spend the next four or five days in the Atlas Mountains before journeying through the Sahara Desert en route to Mauritania, Senegal and its capital, Dakar, ending up at the Gambian capital, Banjul.

Mr Muggeridge said: "I'm looking forward to seeing porcelain again when I get home. The facilities are a little bit basic. We are just camping and cooking on fires at the moment so it's fairly caveman."

The money they raise will go to children's charity Make-A-Wish Foundation UK.

He said: "This was an absolutely dreadful attack – and I am totally shocked. This person must be caught at once and brought to justice before he does something worse. It's just disgraceful. I think everyone in the town will be upset by this."

Ann Taylor, 60, who lives in Leather Lane, was horrified at the attack.

She said: "I am totally disgusted. I nearly fell to the floor when I heard about it. I won't go out at night. I am glad the girl is all right and I just hope they catch this animal."

Police have launched a hunt for the attacker and appealed for witnesses.

Det Con Jenny Gant, from Bury St Edmunds CID, said: "This is an unusual assault where we will be making further inquiries to ascertain the full circumstances surrounding the incident. It is important that we hear from anyone who was in the area who may have seen this man."

The man is described as 6ft tall, slim, white and aged between 40 and 50 years old. He had short, dark curly hair, was clean-shaven and wore a dark blue long-sleeved hooded top, straight blue denim jeans and trainers. He also wore black fleece gloves and carried a black shopping bag.

The woman suffered scratch marks from the glass and was seen by her doctor after possibly ingesting the toxic liquid but will not need further medical treatment for her injuries.

Call Det Con Jenny Gant at Bury St Edmunds CID on 101, or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111 with any information about the incident.

Tim is a smash hit when it comes to backing charity

TIM Henman has picked up his racket to help raise the awareness of a disease affecting a 3-year-old Haverhill girl.

The sporting superstar took part in a tennis marathon organised by Lily Bamber's grandmother, Liz, which raised £12,500 for charity.

Lily, of Burnt House Close, suffers from a rare neuromuscular disorder which drains her of energy, has caused her to suffer stroke-like episodes and means she cannot walk or even stand without help.

Liz, who celebrated her birthday on Monday, said: "I was just thinking what I was going to do for my 60th birthday. I thought to myself I can turn what has been a fairly horrendous year since Lily was diagnosed into something positive and try and do something about it."

"She's our first grandchild and life is going to be incredibly difficult for her."

The tennis coach who lives in Oxfordshire said Tim had been "delightful". She said: "I think it probably touched the heartstrings somewhere. He has got three healthy daughters and he was happy to come along and support the event."

"He was absolutely

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

delightful, I have to say. He had all the time in the world to sign people's books and T-shirts and goodness knows what so it was so kind of him."

Liz had been aiming to play for six hours – one for each decade of her life – but ended up carrying on for another hour at the event.

Lily's mum, Michelle Bamber, 30, said: "Lily was very excited, she kept saying: 'I'm going to beat Tim Henman at tennis'. I think she thought she was going to get a little game."

Money raised thanks to the marathon near Oxford on Sunday will help The Lily Foundation, named after a baby of the same name, to fund research into mitochondrial disease.

Tim also donated a racket which is being auctioned to raise even more for the cause. Email Liz, who lives near Oxford, on liz_bamber_tennis@btopenworld.com to place a bid before noon on January 21.

To add to the fundraising total, visit www.justgiving.co.uk/liz-bamber.

Burglars steal jewellery

JEWELLERY was stolen from a house which was unoccupied for just one hour.

Police are appealing for information after the incident at an address in Withersfield Road, Thurlow, between 10 and 11am on Tuesday.

The property was broken into, searched and a quantity of jewellery was taken.

Police are keen to hear from anyone who was in the area and may have noticed any suspicious activity.

Calls should be made to Det Con Ben Clark at Bury St Edmunds CID on 101 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Woman grabbed

A WOMAN was grabbed from behind as she was out walking her dog near a primary school on Boxing Day.

Police are appealing for information about the incident, which happened in Haverhill on Wednesday, December 26.

The woman was walking along the old railway line near the Cangle School and Flood Park at around 8.10pm, when someone came up behind her and grabbed her arms. The woman shouted out and was then pushed away causing her to fall to her knees, hitting her cheek on a tree. The suspect ran off.

If you witnessed this incident or have any information that may help, contact Suffolk police on 101.

Lion has a roaring time playing with donated trees

DONATIONS of old Christmas trees are gifts that can keep on giving – as one African lion at Linton Zoo found out.

Zuri has been spotted having some fun with donations made to the wildlife breeding centre, which appealed for discarded Christmas trees.

Linton Zoo said cut trees were used to keep animals entertained or to spice up its aviaries. And once the trees have dried out they can be reused again to provide heat and hot water at the zoo.

Christmas trees with roots could be replanted and donations from previous years can be seen in the African grey necked crowned crane enclosure, for example, and were being enjoyed by Hedwig in the snowy owl aviary.

A zoo spokeswoman said the response to their appeal had been "fantastic".

She said: "Greenery is very important to our animals, so live rooted and growing trees can be given a second chance at life by being planted in one of our animal enclosures.

"Trees without roots can be used to decorate our aviaries and as enrichment for many of our animals including the lions, tigers and snow leopards.

"Once the cut trees have dried out they are used as fuel for our Bio-burner – this provides additional heating and hot water to help run our zoo at this very expensive, cold time of year."

Trees were being left at Linton Zoo's front gate or on the drive if it was closed.

OAP finds burglars in bedroom

A 74-YEAR-OLD woman has been left “shaken” by burglars who invaded her home and stole cash.

The elderly woman was disturbed by two men in her bedroom in Haverhill at about 9.30pm last Friday.

One grabbed her arm and demanded to know where she kept her money and the other then searched her bedroom.

She managed to pull her emergency cord to get help.

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

The criminals stole a purse containing a small amount of cash.

Suffolk police believe the offenders got into and left the Mill Road home through a window.

A spokes-woman for the force said: “The lady has been left quite shaken by the incident and police are keen to hear from anyone who was in the area and saw two men acting suspiciously.”

Police have described the men as white and wearing dark clothing.

One was around 6ft while the other was about 5ft 8in.

The shorter man is said to be stocky and wore a flat cap.

If you were in the area and noticed any suspicious activity or recognise the men from the descriptions you are asked to call Det Con Mike Blayney at Bury St Edmunds CID on 101 or Crime-stoppers on 0800 555 111.

COMMUNITY NEWS

Weston Colville

PARISH COUNCIL: The next parish council meeting is on Monday. Full minutes of the previous meeting are available on the parish noticeboards and included the following items.
Affordable/Social housing: Following a presentation by Mark Deas of ACRE, it was decided that a survey should be made in Weston Colville to see if there was a need for affordable housing in the village.
Stream maintenance: The replacement of the bridge at the end of Horseshoe Lane would soon be completed, but the question of stream clearance is still ongoing. The council has contacted the owners and farm contractor concerned and further investigations were to be made.
Village Pond: The work by Borehams to clear the middle of the pond was soon to begin as this is by far the best time – wildlife is mostly dormant and the least disruption will therefore be caused.
Street Lighting: There is to be no change to the management of street lighting in the village.
Emergency planning: Bridget Durham has undertaken a risk assessment and will produce a plan for Weston Colville. She will be asking for volunteers to add to the SCDC database.
Planning Applications: The proposal for change of use of The Lothbury Centre from shop/art gallery to residential was supported.
Speed limits: A £5,000 grant with a 10 per cent contribution from the parish has been confirmed to change the speed limits in the village. The current 40 mph limits will become 30 mph and the current unrestricted limit will be 40 mph.

 For further details see the noticeboard, where there is a map showing the changes.
Bus Survey Meetings: Allen Scott has attended both the recent meetings of Cambridgeshire Future Transport held at Balsham. The new bus timetables will be based on Linton as a hub. They will probably stay in place until next April, when further changes may take place.
Wind Farm Meeting: The village had been successful in its application for Wind Farm grants for the Weston Colville Cricket Club changing room project (£3,000) and for the re-lettering of the RAF Wrattling Common War Memorial (£948).
Change of Parish Clerk: The chairman thanked Christine King on behalf of the council for her hard work during her time as parish clerk, and introduced Jill Smyth, who took up the post from November 16. Christine will continue to assist in the production of a Parish Plan.

West Wrattling

GARAGE Sale: Don't forget the Sue Ryder fundraising sale being run by Rachel Hodge on Saturday from 11am until everything has gone.
Parish Council: The next meeting will be on Monday at 8pm. All are welcome.
 The draft minutes are posted on both village noticeboards. Some of the items discussed at the last meeting follow.

Peter & Ruth Lloyd Trust: No student this year has applied for a grant from this trust. If you know of someone who is continuing their education and would like some financial assistance contact the trust.
Maintenance: a) Further maintenance work has been carried out at the village hall, replacing the back door and panels which were rotten, with a new door with higher security. A request was made to the parish council for a contribution towards the cost of this and this was agreed. b) Cllr Wallace is taking advice from the tree officer at SCDC about the condition of the ash trees.
Danger Spots: a) A further meeting had been held with the chairman of West Wickham, the safety officer from SCDC and Cllrs Job and Ross-Bain, to look at options to slow traffic down at the crossroads on the common.
 Rumble strips seemed to be the least costly of the options and could be shared between the three parishes, but no decision has been made. b) Two requests for footpaths had been received, one on Honey Hill from Viking Close to the junction and the other from The Common to the junction at The Chestnut Tree. There was concern for the safety of children and adults, with the roads becoming busier and driving faster. The parish council will look into the various options, which will be discussed at the next meeting.
 c) District Cllr Hickford told the Parish Council that there was to be a meeting on November 27 in Linton, for parish councils to discuss further the safety aspects of the A1307.

A further meeting was to be held on December 10, to be attended by the local MP and county and district councillors, to discuss ideas from the former meeting.
Bus review: Current services are being maintained with the transport department looking at the various options. It is hoped that a Saturday service might be resumed, but money is short.
Signage to war memorial on common: Due again to the lack of money at the transport department of Cambridgeshire County Council, this will not be carried out. However, it is hoped that the parish council may be able to provide some signage.
Housing Survey: Mark Deas, from Acre, who put out the housing survey to West Wrattling parishioners, will be attending the next meeting with the results of the survey. He was pleased with the response from the parish.
Gritting volunteers: Cambridgeshire County Council has again requested the help of volunteers to keep the roads in their village gritted and thanked them for the help given last year. If someone is happy to help let someone from the parish council know. Training, if necessary, is available.

West Wickham

GARDENING CLUB: The next meeting will be on Monday, January 21, in the village hall, starting at 7.30pm. The subject will be of great interest to many as it will be The Water Lilies at Latour-Marillac and Monet, by Caroline Holmes.

New move for lottery music man

A COUPLE who scooped one of Britain's biggest-ever lottery wins is believed to still be hoping to stay in business – despite winning a massive £148 million.

Adrian and Gillian Bayford shunned a luxury lifestyle after hitting the jackpot last August and initially kept open their music shop in Queen Street, Haverhill.

But the shop closed its doors for the last time in December, after father-of-two Adrian became fed up of people wandering in asking for money.

Adrian is now thought to be converting stables in the grounds of his new £6 million mansion into a musical instruments workshop.

The 41-year-old is said to be investing in the state-of-the-art facility as a new venture with business partner and best friend Richard Hudspeth, 38.

Even after hitting the EuroMillions jackpot last August, Adrian said he was eager to carry on working. The down-to-earth pair celebrated their win by ordering a Domino's Pizza and taking an EasyJet budget flight to Scotland.

He felt there was a 'Lotto cloud' hanging over the place and decided to relaunch in the spring as an online-only business. His new workshops will make electric guitars, mandolins and ukuleles.

Customer and music teacher Jonathan Coe said: "From what I gather they had a lot of trouble with people coming into the store and asking for money.

"I think they didn't want their business to be so heavily associated with the lotto win so they've closed up shop and are putting the store online.

"Adrian is currently converting old stables at their new property and making them into the workshops for Richard to continue his work with guitars.

"He'll be running the business from there and they are still very much in business together.

"I just think they want the opportunity to rebrand and move on from the lottery win, and get on with their jobs."

A neighbouring businessman said: "Adrian was getting a lot of grief from people walking in and trying to get cash off him.

"There are idiots in every town and some of them got nasty when he turned them away. He just does not need that kind of abuse."

Richard said: "Yes, the shop has closed and now we are enjoying some quiet time and don't want to say anything about the future.

"We have got a couple of things in the pipeline but do not wish to disclose exactly what they are at this time."

Adrian started selling second-hand CDs on a market stall before opening his shop.

He and his wife splashed out on their 'Downton Abbey-style' mansion last November.

The Bayfords were unavailable for comment.

Winning feeling: Gillian and Adrian Bayford break open the bubbly after their massive £148m EuroMillions win.

Collision leads to appeal

POLICE are appealing for witnesses to a collision between a cyclist and a pedestrian outside Haverhill post office at the end of December. The incident happened in High Street at around 7.30pm on Saturday, December 29.

The cyclist is described as a man in his late 20s, wearing a black jacket and riding a light coloured racing bike with drop handlebars.

Anyone who witnessed the collision or has information relating to this incident is asked to contact PS 1338 Leaman at Suffolk Police on 101.

Cash move is not a kindness

Sir, I would like to comment on the report in your newspaper regarding the future of the local History Centre in the Arts Centre in Haverhill ("Archives in jeopardy over drop in funding", Weekly News, December 20).

From the report it seems that St Edmundsbury Council are being most kind to the Haverhill Local History Group in moving cash around to One-Haverhill to distribute.

The quote that the group can now apply for a larger sum of £5,000 instead of the sum now withdrawn by St Edmundsbury, which paid our rent, needs to be elaborated.

The public should know that One-Haverhill, although helping out this year, stated they would not be giving any grants to the History Group as it is not policy to give grants for core funding – in other words, rent.

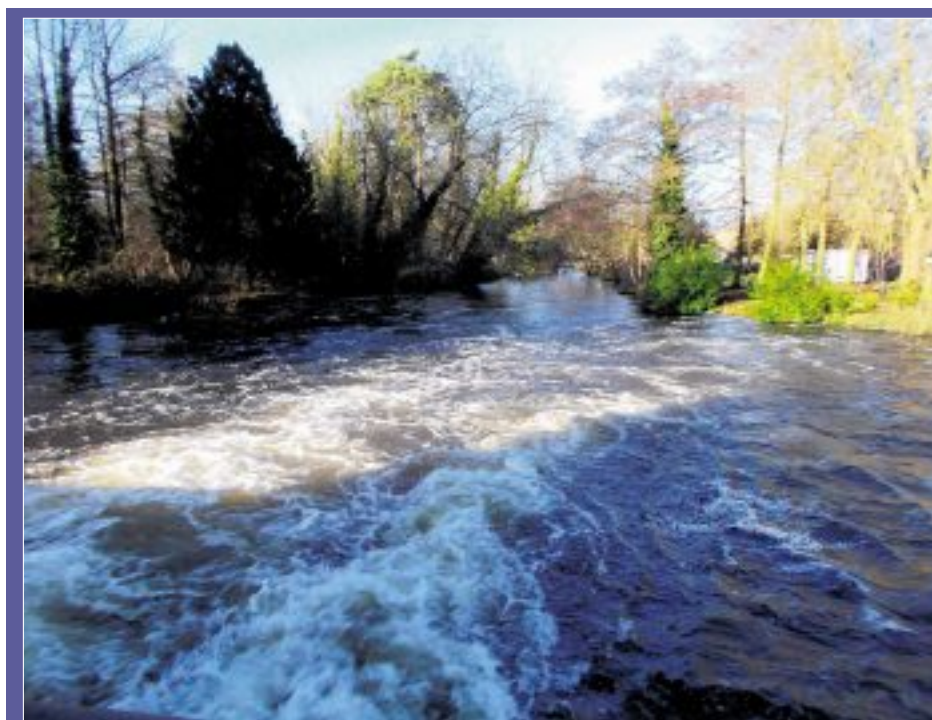

Most other sources for grants operate the same system so applying for grants to rent the History Centre would be met by refusals. Grants were available for special projects only, which does not help the Local History Group to keep the centre open.

Help from a county councillor enabled us to pay the VAT on the rent, which was conveniently not mentioned. This brings the rent to around £4,000 at the moment. As with grants for rent, no organisation will give the History Group a grant for VAT.

In 2011-2012 the rent for the History Centre was £4,062, of which St Edmundsbury gave us a grant of £3,500, a shortfall of more than £500. This St Edmundsbury grant was, as you mentioned, halved for 2012-2013 and disappears altogether from April this year. On top of this we also used to have a sum of cash for mounting an exhibition in the arts centre each year, but this budget has been withdrawn so no more new exhibitions.

The History Group and the centre are a fully accredited museum on the level of the British Museum, Imperial War Museum and other top museums, having satisfied the accreditation board in keeping and operating successfully as a museum, although we have no special display areas, only the small areas in our centre at the arts centre. With no secure tenure the Haverhill Local History Group as a museum would be seriously affected.

We have a very good working relationship with the Haverhill Town Council, our landlords, and we are trying, with some help from them, to try to prevent the History Centre closing in April this year. This will definitely happen if no solution can be found. There is no other accommodation available in the town from which the history centre can be operated. It comes down to being able to find at least £5,000 every year to save the history centre.

In our collection we have more than 7,000 photographs, 2,180 publications, 1,600 research papers, local newspapers, over 400 maps, a large number of deeds for buildings in the town and district, 700 articles/items (most always in storage) as well as many other items coming in regularly, these include the total items in four sheds that a local farmer has donated, which we cannot store at the moment. This includes two old cars, together with farm equipment and other items that need to be kept for Haverhill's historic past. We have visitors from all over the world who come to the History Group for help from USA, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand this just in the past year.

The Local History Group itself will not close down and will go on with meetings in people's private houses, and all the collection stored away out of sight and not available or accessible to the public very often. A final point I would like to put is that the History Group could fill every room of the Arts Centre as a museum, and still have some large items stored away.

Thanks for all your kind help

Sir, On behalf of the Salvation Army I would like to thank the people of Haverhill for your generosity to us over the festive period, which enabled us to provide Christmas dinner for those who would otherwise have spent the day alone. Each guest received a gift and a tea-time bag as well as enjoying a three-course lunch.

The day began with worship as we adored the One who came to save us.

After dinner we had some fun together as we all joined in with quizzes.

May the Lord bless you all in 2013.

New Year 999 calls top 1,900

PARAMEDICS dealt with nearly 2,000 emergency calls during the new year celebrations – double the number of an average night.

Staff at the East of England Ambulance Service NHS Trust handled a total of 1,970 calls over 12 hours from 7pm on December 31 to 7am on January 1 – an average of 164 an hour.

Neil Storey, director for emergency operations, said: "My thanks and praise goes out to all our staff and volunteers who worked during this difficult shift."

As the trust boosted resources for what is traditionally the busiest night of the year, joint initiatives such as 'see and treat' tents and SOS buses in town centres helped to limit hospital admissions.

The trust is also asking people thinking about new year resolutions to make two easy but important ones – learn how to save a life and share the Right Call message so people know how the ambulance service prioritises calls.

Group offers help with festive debt

HELP is at hand for people who may have overspent during the festive period.

Christians Against Poverty (CAP) are urging anyone concerned about rising debts to get in touch for counselling and money management advice which will be delivered through a local church.

Darren Bullen, centre manager for CAP said: "This year we have worked with a number of clients caught up in repossession hearings and bankruptcy proceedings because their debts were left to spiral out of control.

"If there's one thing we urge people to do, it's please pick up the phone and ask for help as soon as you know you are struggling to pay the bills and don't have enough money to cover everything each week." The service is run in Haverhill by Ann Merrigan at the River of Life Community Church, in Hollands Road. To find out more go to www.capdebthelp.org or call 0800 328 0006 to book an appointment.

Cash windfall helps computing museum

BY RACHEL ALLEN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A MUSEUM has received a "significant" cash windfall towards educating children and young adults about computers.

The Centre for Computing History has received a late Christmas present in the shape of an "unexpected" financial donation from Haverhill Research Park.

The generous donation coincides with the launch of the museum's fundraising campaign in support of its relocation to Cambridge from its current location in the High Street.

Jason Fitzpatrick from the centre said: "We are deeply appreciative of Haverhill Research Park's on-going generosity and belief in our endeavours."

"These funds will be used to support our educational outreach work."

Nic Rumsey, development director of Carisbrooke Investments, the developer of the £100m research park situated at the western gateway to the town, has taken a keen interest in the museum's progress since its foundation in Haverhill in 2006.

He said: "As a company involved in developing vision into reality, we are quick to admire grit and determination."

"Having witnessed the dedication of the team behind this initiative, we are delighted at its success."

The businessman added: "Personal computers have had an extraordinary influence on the way we live and the way we view the world."

"Let's face it, early pioneers of computer technology like Steve Jobs and Tim Berners-Lee literally invented the 21st century!"

"We applaud the museum's lead in taking these inspirational stories out to schools across the country."

Mr Rumsey also welcomed the news that the museum aims to move to Cambridge saying that it is "entirely fitting" given important technological links in the city.

He said: "Cambridge, with its superb track record of technological discovery and invention, is one of the most important technology centres in Europe."

"The Cambridge locale, including Haverhill, embraces a large cluster of high-tech companies many of which have direct and indirect links with the University of Cambridge."

"For these reasons, despite its Haverhill roots, it is entirely fitting that the Centre for Computing History should be based in Cambridge."

The museum has attracted sponsorship from several high profile Cambridge tech businesses including super-chip designer ARM Holdings, Microsoft Research and Red Gate Software.

Cash help for sports stars of the future

POTENTIAL sporting stars of the future can get a cash boost from a housing group.

Havebury Housing, in partnership with Abbeycroft Leisure, is looking for applications from the members of its 6,000 households for its new Sporting Potential Scheme.

There is a pot of £3,000 available to help as many individuals as it can with costs of their training including travel costs, gym membership, equipment or new kit.

Havebury's resident involvement adviser Ellie Darling said: "We were all so enthralled by the fantastic achievements of the athletes at the Olympics and Paralympics this summer."

"They are such an inspiration to us all and it's so important that the legacy of their Games continues for future generations in St Edmundsbury."

"Havebury wants to support young people who have shown they have potential in any sport. However this scheme is not just about funding, it is about providing a support package to maximise individuals potential."

"Abbeycroft Leisure has a number of sporting ambassadors who can provide advice and support to our successful applicants and we are looking forward to helping some young people tap into their full potential."

Michelle Banfield-Curran,

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Abbeycroft's partnership manager, said: "We are delighted to support Havebury's Sporting Potential Scheme."

"We know from Abbeycroft's sporting ambassadors that the training needed to compete at regional, national and international level can put huge pressure on finances at home at a time when athletes need to be focusing on their sport."

"This scheme offers the opportunity for people who may be a future sporting star to fulfil their potential."

Individuals can apply themselves or be put forward by someone else, perhaps by a friend, coach or family member.

Recipients must live in one of Havebury's homes, be aged 18 or under, represent any sporting discipline and be at any stage in their sporting career.

The successful applicants will be chosen by a panel made up of Havebury officials, tenants and representatives from Abbeycroft.

To make an application, complete and submit the entry form at www.havebury.com or call Ellie Darling on 0300 3300 900.

Entries should be received by tomorrow and the winner will be announced on Friday, February 1.

Help with finding life/work balance

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A BUSINESS coach will offer tips on getting a good work/life balance at the next meeting of the bestofhaverhill group.

John Porter, who runs Business Improvements Ltd in Horringer, will be guest speaker at the meeting on Thursday, January 17, at Days Inn, Haverhill, from 10am to 11.30am.

Mr Porter is a business coach and trainer with more than 28 years' experience in helping individuals and teams perform more effectively and achieve their goals and ambitions by adopting smarter working practices.

Since 1984, he has helped more than 20,000 people in areas such as time management, sales training, executive coaching and HR and recruitment issues.

Whether working on a one-to-one basis, as part of a tailored training programme or running a one day

Business coach: John Porter will be guest speaker in Haverhill next week. CP workshop for a team, the philosophy for Business Improvements is always to get the best out of people.

Elaine Carr, owner of thebestofhaverhill said: "January is often a time for reflection, the month when we consider how our business has performed, what we have achieved and what needs to be done differently going forward.

"There can also be a feeling of anticipation of what the New Year could bring if we realise our full potential. We have the opportunity to start again with a clean slate.

"Many small business owners work very long hours and perhaps are not as effective as they could be. It's easy to be fooled into thinking that the more hours you devote to working in your business the more successful you will be.

"The key is what you do in the time you are working not how long you are there.

"Procrastination is another real issue for business owners – it's the demon that prevents us from doing so many things and is something that John will address in his presentation."

To attend the free event, call Elaine Carr on (01440) 710 158 or email Haverhill@thebestof.co.uk by Tuesday, January 15.

The event is open to any local organisations and you do not have to be a member of the bestofhaverhill to attend.

Charity warning over email scam

BY LIZZY BUCHAN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A CHARITY founder has narrowly avoided being defrauded by scammers pretending to be lottery winners.

Tony Gearing, founder and trustee of the charity YOPEY, based in Newmarket, wrote to Haverhill couple Gillian and Adrian Bayford in September after they scooped a £148m jackpot from Euro Millions.

After receiving no response Tony went to the Bayfords' music shop in Haverhill in December to leave his card and a week later he received the scam email which appeared to be from the couple.

The email said the couple had bought properties in London, Portugal and Ukraine and asked Tony to send his details to a bank in Ukraine.

Tony, 53, of Bury Road, in Stradishall, said: "I feel like a plonker for believing this scam and responding to the email with details of the charity I run. But the scammer's timing was perfect.

"YOPEY promotes young positive role models to inspire the younger generation to give to the community so Warning: Tony Gearing.

I thought they might like to consider it for a donation.

"This email arrived within a week so I really thought it was a genuine response to my approach as it appeared to come from a personal email address of Adrian Bayford.

"Thankfully I realised it was a scam when further emails started to arrive, purporting to be from a bank in Ukraine."

Tony contacted his bank, Barclays, who told him the email fitted the profile of a popular scam.

He said: "Barclays also told me it was possible for the scammers to target people living in the Bayfords' area to make the scam seem even more believable.

"I hope anyone who receives these emails will not be as gullible as me and will immediately pass them to their bank and the police to hopefully track down the fraudsters, who are using the good name of a local family to try to rip people off."

Jim Winters, head of fraud at Barclays, said: "Fraudsters are becoming more brazen in their attempts to steal people's money – we all need to become more security conscious.

"Criminals will call people directly and even turn up on their doorstep – pretending to be from their bank or from the police."

He asked people to never give out personal or security details electronically.

A spokeswoman for Suffolk Constabulary said: "Unfortunately, scams happen all too often and fraudsters will use various different means to try to get people to either part with their cash or give out details of their bank account.

"If it sounds too good to be true it probably is."

She asked anyone concerned to contact police on 101.

I was terrified I'd forget how

Traumatised by having to give up her baby 20 years earlier, Sue Bevan poured her feelings into a play about her experiences. What she couldn't have guessed is who would be in the audience for the play's final performance. Interview by EMMA HIGGINBOTHAM

IT'S impossible not to warm to Sue Bevan. Petite and smiley, the economics teacher from Comberton – who's also a keen playwright and performer – is feeling particularly bubbly at the moment, not least because her memoir, That Picture of You, is about to be released.

But this is no frothy collection of classroom or backstage anecdotes: That Picture of You recounts Sue's teen pregnancy, her baby's forced adoption, and how they were reunited – in the most extraordinary circumstances – on her daughter's 21st birthday.

Growing up in Mountain Ash, a deprived town in the Welsh Valleys, life for Sue was tough. "We were a very dysfunctional family," she says. "It wasn't a loving childhood, and if you raise kids in dysfunctional families, you can't be surprised if something goes pear-shaped."

At the age of just 15, Sue – who'd been seeing her boyfriend for a year – fell pregnant. "I was terrified," she says, "and I was in denial for ages. I convinced myself it wasn't happening to me, it was happening to someone else."

"I look back now and I think 'how do you get yourself into that mental state?' And I can only think that I was so frightened of telling my mother that I had to pretend it wasn't happening."

She spent weeks hiding her growing bump under baggy jumpers, but eventually her mother became suspicious: she took Sue to their GP, who confirmed her fears.

"He said 'have you decided what you're going to do?' because at that point I was five months pregnant, and there was no question of a termination. She said 'it's all sorted: she's going to Devon to stay with her sister, and the baby's going to be adopted'. And that was the first I knew about a decision that had already been made. I was furious. I felt totally disempowered. But that was it: it was never mentioned again."

The following morning, Sue's parents drove her to her sister Anne's house in Plymouth, where she was to spend the next four months.

"I was still in denial," she says. "I had complete emotional detachment from the situation. Even when I went into labour, I didn't tell Anne: I thought that if I didn't tell her, it somehow wouldn't happen."

But, of course, it did: Anne took Sue to hospital, "and at 9 o'clock she had to leave. The nurses showed me where the button was if I needed to call anybody, and then went. So I went through the whole night, labouring on my own, convinced I was dying. I knew the process of childbirth, but I just thought 'something's going wrong, and I am going to die'. I felt like I deserved it." She didn't press the button.

Sue's baby was born at 9.30 the following morning, "and she was beautiful, absolutely beautiful."

"Suddenly I went from being in total denial that this was happening, to total denial that she was going to be taken for adoption. I was in this little bubble: as far as I was concerned it was going to go on forever. I just ignored the fact that in eight days' time she was going to be somebody else's child, and played at being mummy."

"I called her Alison, and I did everything: bathing, nappies, feeding, burping, everything that a new mother did, except breast-feeding: they wouldn't let me, and you can see why."

All too soon, day 8 arrived: "I remember being driven back to my sister's in the social worker's car, with the baby in a carrycot," says Sue. "As we arrived I saw my parents' car, and I thought brilliant! They're going to see her, and they're going to say 'we can't let this baby go, this is ridiculous!'"

"The social worker said to my sister 'are your parents here?' and she said 'yes, but they don't want to see the baby'. And that was it. At that point my world fell apart. I walked into the house without the baby, and the baby went off in the car. I didn't even say goodbye."

"Then we drove back to Wales without a mention of a pregnancy, birth, adoption, absolutely nothing. It was never, ever mentioned again. I had no counselling, no support. It was barbaric, really."

Life carried on. By day, Sue bottled up her feelings, by night she'd cry herself to sleep. She went back to school – her cover story was that she'd been sent away with a nervous disorder brought on by exam stress – and she didn't breathe a word about what had happened, even to her (by now ex) boyfriend. "I went to his house, and we sat in his bedroom, talking and laughing, and 20 times I thought 'I've got to tell him I had a baby'. But I didn't."

Eventually, Sue left Wales and became a teacher. She settled in Cambridge in 1983, where she founded a theatre company. She also got married but, to her surprise and sadness, couldn't get pregnant, even with fertility treatment.

"I was devastated that I'd had a child and allowed her to be taken away," she says. "I just kept thinking 'I've had this child, I can't have her, and now I can't have any others'. It felt like a punishment."

In the early 90s, and by now married to her current husband, Bert, Sue finally became pregnant – but had a miscarriage, "and that sent me in a total spin. I saw a counsellor who said 'write this stuff down', so I did. I wrote and wrote, and it just flowed out. It was really cathartic."

The result was a play, Half a Million Women, which recounted Sue's adoption experience. And it was while she was writing it that she fell pregnant with Ben, who's now 19.

Sue's theatre company loved the play: they began rehearsals and booked performance slots at the Cambridge Drama Centre in June 1993: "and entirely coincidentally, the last night of the play was on my daughter's 21st birthday."

"Then one night I came home from a dress rehearsal, and Bert said 'you need to sit down'. He was on the verge of tears, and he took my hand and said 'your daughter is looking for you'."

It transpired that Alison – now called Helen, and living in Wolverhampton – had spent weeks tracking her down.

An exchange of letters followed, "then she sent her phone number and asked me to call. So I came back from performing in and directing this show about her, to phone her, just before midnight when she was turning 21."

It was, says Sue, "like we'd known each other for ever: we talked and I laughed, and I told her I was pregnant, and she said 'I thought you might be'."

Sue asked her what she was doing for her 21st, "and she said 'I'm going out clubbing: what are you doing?' And I said 'well actually I'm directing a play that I've written about you. Do you want to come and see it? Tomorrow's the last night'."

"And she said 'I can't because I've got all these things planned, but I'll come down with my boyfriend as soon as I can', and we arranged for her to come down a couple of weeks later. I went to bed and barely slept. I was so excited."

Early the next morning, the phone rang. It was Helen: "She said 'I can't wait two weeks, we're going to come down today.'"

Sue and Bert spent the afternoon waiting by the window: "We watched every young couple going past, thinking no, that's not her, that's not her, and then they walked past and I said 'that's her'."

She opened the door, "and we both said hi, and then I said 'can I hold you?' So we stood there, hugging, both being very brave, neither of us crying. Then we made tea and sat on the sofa. We couldn't stop looking at each other, and there was just this flurry of trying to tell each other a lifetime's worth of stuff."

Helen had brought a photo album, packed with pictures of her as a little girl: "and I was thinking 'I've missed all of this', determined not to cry," says Sue. "Then suddenly Bert ran upstairs, and came back with something, and handed it to her, and said 'this is all your mum's had'."

"He'd got the one photograph I'd been sent, taken when she was three months old. I'd had to chase and chase social services – I was terrified I'd forget what she looked like – so eventually they sent me this photograph. And I just collapsed in tears. That's why the book is called That Picture of You, because it was all I'd had all these years."

That night, Helen came to see the play: "It started with me in a rocking chair in a spotlight, singing Mocking Bird a cappella, then I got up and walked into the front row of the audience, and the play started."

"So she was in the front row while I sang, then we sat holding hands through the whole thing, watching the story unfold."

Not surprisingly, the media got wind of this: Sue and Helen were featured in the national press, and appeared on This Morning with Richard and Judy. Yet amazing though their reunion was, the ending of the story isn't – for now, at least – a happy one.

"Things are not easy between us, and I'm keen to be realistic about that," says Sue. "You see so many of these dramatic reunions on TV, but they never follow those stories through to see what happens. In a lot of cases people meet, and then a month later they never see each other again."

"What you lose is a baby, and what you find is a fully-grown person, and the years you have apart leaves a lot of damage. With us, we're 19 years down the road, and it's not a smooth road."

"But I'm philosophical, really," she adds. "I can see why my parents did what they did: I firmly believe that my mother thought she was acting in my best interests, and my daughter's best interests, because she wouldn't have wanted to grow up in Mountain Ash as an illegitimate child in the 1970s. It would have been very difficult for her – and for me."

"Everything that has happened in my life has brought me to where I am right now, and I wouldn't change a thing, which would probably be hard for my daughter to hear."

"It's politicised me, made me look at women's rights, made me more empathetic. It's made me the person I am today, for good or bad."

■ That Picture of You, by Sue J Bevan, is published later this month. It will be available from Amazon, as an eBook and paperback, priced £2.99

Huggable: Jim with Addenbrooke's play specialist Sue Fisher and the latest batch of bears.

Picture: Keith Heppell 884875

A big birthday for Jim's bear gift scheme in hospitals

A "SIMPLE idea" aimed at bringing comfort to children in hospital has hit its 10th anniversary.

TLC Teddies was launched in 2003 at Addenbrooke's and other hospitals and later expanded to other areas.

Founder Jim Whitehead said: "I came across the idea when I was representing Cambridgeshire Masons at the annual meeting of Essex Freemasons in 2002.

"An Essex mason had started the scheme up and I was so taken with its simplicity that I asked if he would put us in touch with the teddy bear suppliers and let us join in.

"Ian Simpson was delighted and gave us every help in starting up.

"After 10 years the scheme is now nationwide and has also been exported abroad."

Mr Whitehead, who still delivers bears to hospitals, says in the past decade around 19,000 have been given to children in A&E.

He added: "They are available to be given to any frightened or distressed child who is being very brave or who needs to be helped to be very brave.

"Staff have complete discretion as to which patients need a teddy and the child keeps the toy to take home.

"The little bears help the child by providing something to clutch and squeeze and also serve as a distraction."

150 homes approved at research park site

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A RESEARCH park development park which could create hundreds of new jobs has taken another step closer to reality after approval was given for 150 homes that are part of the plan.

The homes to be built on eight acres of the Haverhill Research Park at Hanchett End had already been accepted in principle and are needed to offset the high cost of developing the sloping 30-acre site and making the scheme viable.

At their meeting on Thursday members of St Edmundsbury Borough Council's development control committee approved revised detailed plans for a mixture of 2, 3, 4 and 5 bedroom homes on the site. Outline planning consent was granted a year ago for a research park, business units, a pub/restaurant, hotel and children's crèche on the site.

Communities Minister Eric Pickles visited the site last November, when work started on roads and infrastructure.

The development control committee received three objections to the housing plans, raising concerns about flooding risks, drainage of surface water, a footpath and landscape buffer and overlooking existing homes. An objection was raised that only 10 per cent of affordable homes would be included, when the usual was 30 per cent.

Planning officer Rosie Hopkinson told councillors that the substantial landscaped buffer provided was considered adequate to overcome any damage to the amenity of existing residents and management of surface water run-off has been designed into the scheme to ensure that there are no adverse impacts.

She said: "The proposed development is not considered to have an adverse impact on highway safety, traffic generation, the amenities of neighbours, or the character of the area."

Power tools taken in raid

POWER tools were stolen from a garden shed during a night time raid.

Offenders ransacked a shed in the back garden of an address in Alderton Close, Haverhill, between 9.30pm on Saturday and 9.20am the following day.

Various power tools including an air stapler, air nail gun, electric planer, MDS hand drill, jigsaw in a black case, router in a black case, portable Wrox drill and compressor were stolen.

Police believe a vehicle was used to take the items away as many were very heavy. Anyone with information about the incident or who has been offered the tools to buy should call police on 101.

Tracker apps to help police in crime fight

SUFFOLK Police are urging residents to get technology savvy as part of their burglary-busting Operation Drawbridge.

The force is encouraging people to install tracker apps on their smartphones, android devices and tablet computers following the Christmas season when top-of-the-range gadgets would be given as presents.

Tracker devices and apps have already helped police get their hands on valuables stolen in the county and they could lead to the arrest of the thieves, Suffolk Police said.

Det Chief Insp Bernie Morgan said: "As part of Operation Drawbridge, we are determined to exploit technology and find further ways in which we can help members of the public help themselves in securing their homes and their property to stop them becoming victims of crime.

"If a criminal gains access to a home, it can be much easier for us to get stolen property back when tracker applications have been used.

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

"This also helps us to locate offenders and bring them to justice for the distress and upset they have caused their victims.

"I know that phones and electronic devices would be highly popular as gifts this Christmas, so I would encourage those individuals who have received such items to install tracker apps to these products.

"By doing so, you are helping to ensure the item is well protected."

Operation Drawbridge is a police campaign to cut the number of burglaries being committed in Suffolk and to bring more offenders to justice.

Mobile phones can also be registered for free on the Immobilise website which will help police identify the owners of phones they recover.

Free films celebrate move to digital

AN ARTS centre is out to disprove the theory that there is no such thing as a free lunch – with a four-day series of free films.

Haverhill Arts Centre will host four days of free films this month to celebrate the installation of its new digital cinema projector.

The movies include favourites such as The Iron Lady, The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel, French language film, Delicacy, docudrama The Imposter and the recent release Hysteria.

Nick Keeble from the Arts Centre said: "Our free film week is to celebrate the Arts Centre's acquisition of a digital projector – and to test out the new equipment.

"We increasingly found that films were only being distributed on a digital format and we were missing out on some great cinema – the new projector means we get to show a greater variety of films, great for the Arts Centre and our customers."

Tickets need to be booked in advance through the box office on (01440) 714140 or online at www.haverhillartscentre.co.uk.

The free showings are:

- Monday, January 28 at 1.30pm The Iron Lady;

The big film

certificate 12A, 1h 54m

OSCAR-WINNING director Tom Hooper took an audacious gamble when he announced his intention of filming Claude-Michel Schönberg and Alain Boublil's powerhouse musical without the conventional safety net of lip-synching. But his decision to ask the actors to sing live in every take pays off handsomely, teasing out the heartbreaking emotion in an adaptation of a stage show which has become a global phenomenon. Hooper's terrific film embraces the Schönberg and Boublil songbook with bold directorial flourishes and tour-de-force performances, including a cri de coeur from Anne Hathaway that virtually guarantees her the Oscar next month.

Hugh Jackman also richly deserves a nomination for his portrayal of a convict, a role which required him to shed 30 pounds to portray his emaciated hero. The film begins with a thrilling overture in a dockyard where Valjean (Jackman) and his fellow prisoners haul a ship out of the frothing water under the watchful eye of Inspector Javert (Russell Crowe). Valjean is granted parole and leaves behind his tormentor but cannot secure employment because of his shameful past. Only the kindness of a bishop saves him from starvation. Eight years later, Valjean has reinvented himself as a revered factory owner in Montreuil-sur-Mer, where one of his workers, Fantine (Hathaway), is cruelly cast out when the foreman learns she has an illegitimate daughter, Cosette (Isabelle Allen). Determined to raise the money to keep her child under the roof of villainous Thenardier (Sacha Baron Cohen) and his wife (Helena Bonham Carter), Fantine sells her hair and then her body. Valjean discovers Fantine close to death and agrees to raise Cosette as his own. So the story moves on a further nine years with revolutionary fervour sloshing through the grimy streets of Paris, inflamed by students Enjolras (Aaron Tveit) and Marius (Eddie Redmayne). The latter falls under the spell of Cosette (now played by Amanda Seyfried), unaware that Thenardier's daughter, Eponine (Samantha Barks), adores him from afar. Les Misérables is a towering achievement both in front of and behind the camera and the cast is superb.

Best laid plans need time and care

by Hannah Stephenson

IT MAY still be a bit nippy to be doing many jobs in the garden, so now's a perfect time to relax and make design plans for the year to come.

Ideas may come from magazines, a TV programme or may simply be inspired by a neighbour's garden, but it's best to buy yourself a notebook and jot down your plans.

Whatever you decide to do, whether it's creating a new bed or making radical changes with hard landscaping, work out how much time and effort you're prepared to spend on the project and the subsequent maintenance that will require.

It's no use planting a garden full of high-maintenance plants if you're not going to be there to deadhead, water, feed and keep everything under control.

Think about where you are going to site any new project. If you're planning a raised bed for vegetables, make sure it's going to be in a sunny spot with not much shade from overhanging trees, or you won't be able to grow a huge variety in there. And remember that veg patches can be high maintenance too, as weeding, watering and feeding is likely to be a regular requirement.

HEAD FOR THE BORDERS: If you're creating a new bed or border, the minimum width should be 1m (40in)

If you're a seasoned gardener, you'll already know what type of soil you have. If not, a simple soil test kit can be bought from any garden centre which will indicate what type of soil you have and, from there, you can find out what types of plants will grow in it.

If your garden is dry, shady, or you have clay or acid soil, you need to work with it. Don't try to fight it by changing the make-up of the soil because no matter how much organic matter you add, eventually the original type will come through. If you want to grow acid-loving plants such as azaleas but have alkaline soil, you're best off growing them in pots of ericaceous compost.

Other practicalities to consider when creating a new area include drainage, storage space, available electricity and water. If the garden's on a slope, you may need to level the site or install a drainage system. If you're planning a paved area, make sure it's level but with enough camber to drain effectively or you'll end up with puddles you don't want.

Think outside the box and you may come up with a more interesting design. Never, for instance, make narrow borders along boundary fences, because following the boundary lines will just emphasise the shape of your garden and make it look smaller.

If you're creating a new bed or border, the minimum width should be 1m (40in), and even that will restrict what can be grown. It's better to go for a border twice or even three times that width for dwarf shrubs and modest perennials.

Strong shapes are important and need to blend with your house, keeping everything in proportion and making both outdoor and indoor space merge seamlessly.

The general rule of thumb with proportion of planting and features to open space is one-third planting to two-thirds space.

Without the space, the planting and features within the garden cannot be seen to best advantage.

Even if you have an awkward-shaped garden, you can create spaces within it which can be explored – it might be a circular lawn or a winding path, fringed by planting and focal points to give it depth and structure.

You may want to create a change of level in your garden to define specific areas, using terracing, or install points of interest along the way such as a water feature, seating or an eye-catching statue. Consider light and shade, which can also be used to change the shape of a space by creating the illusion of depth and distance.

Of course, gardeners are always interested in new plants, but often the plants which can be guaranteed to steal the show are old favourites, so look at what you already grow successfully in your borders, the plants which like your soil and their situation, and perhaps consider repeat planting further along.

Most of all, when planning, work out what you want the garden for – is it to relax, to experiment with gardening or to use as a family-friendly play area? If your children are regularly playing football in it, forget a bowling green finish or planting delicate plants around the lawn which are likely to get their flowers knocked off by a ball.

And remember that fashion plays its part when planting.

Years ago, hybrid tea and floribunda roses were in vogue but now alliums and tree ferns have become the must-have plants – but will they still be in fashion in a few years' time?

You may be better off with something you're happy with on an everyday basis as the basic structure of planting, but you can vary the colour and type of seasonal planting from year to year.

Bentley's Continental GT Speed Convertible is a record-breaker

BENTLEY has unveiled the fastest four-seater soft-top in the world with its new 202mph Continental GT Speed Convertible.

Featuring a twin-turbo W12 engine tuned to produce an astonishing 616bhp, the convertible version of the GT Speed that was unveiled last year shares most of its technology with its hard-top sibling.

The engine has been improved in every respect, and despite packing 175kg of extra weight over the current hard-top version, the latest Convertible is still 15 per cent more efficient than the first GT Speed.

The new 2.5-tonne flagship records 19.5mpg on the EU standard test cycle, with CO2 readings of 347g/km.

Like its enclosed counterpart, the GT Speed Convertible uses an eight-speed ZF automatic gearbox for incredibly fast, reliable and smooth changes both up and down.

Paddles are present behind the steering wheel for semi-manual shifts if desired. It is also capable of 'block-shifting', for example from eighth to fourth.

The famed Bentley

'wave of torque' is maintained, with a monumental peak of 590lb.ft sustained between 2,000rpm and 5,000rpm.

The four-layer acoustic fabric hood is said to keep road noise to a minimum.

During its development, it was tested in temperatures from -30C to 50C, with Bentley claiming it can withstand monsoon rain and maintain 'draft-free warmth' even on the coldest winter days.

Handling improvements over the standard Continental GT Convertible come from stiffer suspension bushes and stronger anti-roll bars, while the ride is set up 10mm lower.

Prices have yet to be confirmed but are expected to sit around the £160,000 mark.

Details from Milton Road-based Bentley Cambridge on (01223) 640632 or go to www.cambridge.bentleymotors.com.

Haywards takes on three-wheel city van

WELL, it's certainly different, writes Mike Scialom.

Haywards of Cambridge is now selling the three-wheel Piaggio Ape (pronounced "are-pey", it's Italian for "bee") with three different engines, starting with a 50cc unit.

"We're aiming for the city," says Haywards service manager Ed Upward, "with customers like local delivery firms, plus rural sales from farms and smallholdings, and the leisure market such as fishermen. It'll suit anyone that doesn't need a larger van."

It also works well in tight city spaces, as anyone who has seen the Piaggio three-wheel coffee maker in the middle of Cambridge's Market Square will recognise.

Prices start at £4,372 + VAT for the 50cc Ape Cross Pick Up, with the bulk of sales expected for the Ape TM with handlebars, price £5,792 + VAT, and the Ape TM with steering wheel, price £6,033 + VAT.

The 420cc Ape Classic is tagged at £5,099 + VAT.

"The two-stroke is the most popular option because it has more pulling speed," adds Ed of the range, which has a payload of 800kg. "Both the 220 and the 420cc have the same top speed, the global top seller is the 220cc in petrol only, whereas the best UK seller is the 420cc diesel option."

The Ape – pictured above – is classed as a trike, so you pay £75 a year for road tax, and the model comes with a one-year warranty for commercial use, and one year's roadside assistance.

Seatbelts are standard but there is no airbag option. There's an extensive modifications market which has seen the Ape turned into a vehicle with all sorts of applications including as a taxi, delivery van, motorhome (!) and ice cream van.

Call Haywards on (01223) 311611 or go to www.haywards.co.uk for details, or try the Piaggio website at www.piaggiocommercialuk.co.uk for further information.

Kia Sorento wins award for the 'most improved 4x4'

THE new Kia Sorento has picked up its third Total 4x4 magazine award in a row with a special award for being the "Most Improved" contender.

Launched in the UK and Europe in September, the Sorento has a long list of improvements including a new platform, revised engines, enhanced interior quality and a smarter, more modern look.

The Sorento range comes only with a 2.2-litre turbo-diesel engine and a host of emission-reducing and fuel-stretching features.

Available with a choice of manual or automatic transmissions and seven seats as standard the Sorento range starts at £26,495.

For full details on the all-new Sorento range go to www.kia.co.uk or call EMG on 0845 126 4859.

Special: The Kia Sorento is available with just one powertrain, a 2.2-litre turbo diesel.

Ford Ranger voted top pick-up

THE Ford Ranger has won 4x4 Magazine's 'Pick-Up of the Year 2013' award, making it a record-breaking seventh award in 12 months for the vehicle.

The UK pick-up market has grown by more than 25 per cent since 2009, with eight models currently competing in the segment. The Ford Ranger has emerged victorious from a group of seven vehicles reviewed – the most comprehensive pick-up test 4x4 Magazine has ever conducted.

Nigel Fryatt, 4x4 Magazine

Futuristic: The Ford Ranger.

editor, said: "Ford's new Ranger has significantly raised the bar in the pick-up market with better overall ability, superb ride quality and an interior that makes it hard to believe this is a commercial vehicle."

Fiat announces Panda 4x4 prices

FIAT has announced UK prices for its Panda 4x4 and Panda Trekking, two versions of its supermini that offer a little extra off-road ability.

This latest Panda offering starts at £13,950 for the TwinAir 85hp 4x4, rising to £14,950 for the 1.3 16v Multijet 4x4 diesel version. The two-wheel drive Trekking starts at £12,450 for the TwinAir version and £13,450 for the Multijet.

The new Panda 4x4 has permanent four-wheel drive system,

Ability: The Fiat Panda 4x4 is priced from £13,950.

along with body-coloured bumpers with satin aluminium-finished skid-plate, roof rails, side mouldings with '4x4' logo, black wheel arches and side skirts,

15-inch dark alloys and raised suspension. Inside, the 4x4 and the Trekking benefit from twin-coloured seats, coloured dashboard, door panels in coloured 'eco-leather', and a gloss black instrument surround.

The full engine line-up comprises the award-winning TwinAir 0.9-litre petrol (85hp), giving the Panda 4x4 a top speed of 103mph (Trekking 106mph), combined cycle fuel consumption of 57.6mpg (61.4mpg) and a CO2 figure of 114g/km (105g/km). The Multijet (75hp) can reach 99mph (100mph), returns 60.1mpg (67.3mpg) and has a CO2 figure of 125g/km (109g/km).

Norfolk Medics 3 Haverhill 3
GREENE KING IPA EASTERN COUNTIES LEAGUE, DIVISION TWO

A PENALTY by the hosts two minutes from time cost Haverhill victory in a low-scoring game.

And although the crucial kick came from a questionable refereeing decision, Haverhill will also rue failing to turn possession and territory into points.

With new signing Chance Mulama taking the No 10 shirt, Haverhill looked to be back to the good form of the start of the season.

The front row of George Self, Dan Harris and George Foley are starting to work well as a unit, with Foley putting in some huge, crunching tackles at key times.

Michael Lansdowne in the back row was able to combine nicely with stalwarts Carl Anderson and Paul Bergin, and Haverhill pressure led to the first score on 15 minutes.

Haverhill harried the Medics, who held on to the ball and were penalised. A tap penalty afforded a gain of another 10 metres and the Medics infringed again, allowing Martin Hughes to step up to the kicking tee and slot a 45m kick.

Haverhill spent the whole of the first half with the wind in their backs and in the Norwich half, and Mulama tried a drop goal, which missed by inches.

With Haverhill using the new rolling substitution rules properly, Dan Bishop came on for Harry Marsh. His jumping skills in the line-out augmented those of Anderson and Haverhill started to win ball at will.

With five minutes to go to half time Haverhill won a penalty in an eminently kickable position. Hughes set up for the kick on goal, but then Haverhill chose to run the ball and camped on the Medics tryline, but failed to cross the whitewash – a pivotal moment.

After the break, Medics were able to use the wind to break into Haverhill half, but Haverhill also regularly broke through, with skipper Hunt, Monty Beeton, Hughes and Brodie Patrick running at will through the line, the ball provided by the very impressive Mulama – who sent another drop goal attempt tantalisingly the wrong side of the crossbar.

With the Medics pressurising in the last 10 minutes, Haverhill's defence was excellent, with the likes of Lansdowne and Mulama regularly ripping the ball and turning over possession.

But one such move saw Mulama rip the ball from the opposing scrum-half, go to ground and pass. Medics appealed for a penalty and, to the consternation of Haverhill, the referee gave it.

The kick in front of the posts made it 3-3 with two minutes remaining, though there was still time for Haverhill to push forward and get very close to the Medics line before having to settle for a draw.

Mulama was player of the match for Haverhill, who play Mistley at home on Saturday (2pm).

West Wrattling 8 Hardwick Harriers 4
CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, UNDER-11B

FINLEY Plant scored four goals as Wrattling came from 2-0 and 3-2 down to record victory.

The visitors went in front through a Samie Gare own goal, and extended their lead in the 11th minute.

Jack Lisher and Josh Lee equalised by the 15th minute, but Hardwick moved in front again.

Man of the match Plant's first goal made it 3-3 and was the catalyst for a run of goals by the hosts either side of half time, with Plant adding three more and Gare scoring at the right end to make it 7-3.

Harriers pulled one back, but Lisher had the last word for Wrattling.

Plant was man of the match for Wrattling.

Aztecs White 8 Great Bardfield 0
CAMBS MINI LEAGUE, UNDER-9D

They took the lead with an unfortunate own goal after just 30 seconds, and Jordan Chipps made it 2-0 shortly after.

Despite plenty of possession it took another 15 minutes before Aztecs added the third through a fine strike from Bart Purser.

Oliver Scroggie notched the fourth when he pounced on the rebound after the keeper had parried another Purser effort, and two quick goals from Lloyd Blackburn soon made it six.

Alex Sam and Benjamin Albane then both scored their first goals of the season to round

Plant is at the root of impressive win the scoring off against a plucky Bardfield side.

Wickhambrook 2 Eynesbury Rov White 3
CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE, UNDER-17A

WICKHAMBROOK started brightly and man of the match Jack Whiting had a free kick saved superbly on 10 minutes, before hsi side went in front through Zak Ollington, who stormed into the box to get on the end of David Crowley's pass.

But Eynesbury levelled five minutes later with a 25-yard free kick, and it remained 1-1 at half time.

The visitors went in front when they were awarded a penalty when a forward went down under a challenge from Richard Padmore.

Brook thought they had equalised when Crowley lobbed the keeper and James Percy applied the finish, but the goal was disallowed after a lengthy consultation between referee and linesman.

Jack Whiting had a piledriver saved and Percy saw an effort tipped around the post, before the hosts finally got back on terms on 80 minutes when Tom Warnock pulled the ball back from the byline for James Percy, and when his shot was saved, Crowley tucked away the rebound.

It looked as if it would end that way, but there was a cruel twist for Brook in the last minute when Eynesbury broke and a dangerous ball across goal was turned into his own net at full stretch by the unfortunate Matty Wilson.

West Wrattling 2 Huntingdon Rowdies 3
CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE, UNDER-13A

WRATTING rued a spate of wasted chances and a missed penalty as they gifted victory to a hard-working and determined Rowdies team.

The first half that was dominated by Wrattling, who started brightly with fluent passing play but found Rowdies' keeper and defence in fine form.

Rowdies emerged the more confident side in the second half and were determined to tale full advantage of the slope.

After an early shot scraped the Wrattling post, the breakthrough came from a goalmouth scramble.

Two further Rowdies goals came in quick succession, seemingly securing the victory, before fine efforts from Daniel Cordwell and Etahn Murphy set up a grandstand finish.

Wrattling's big chance to level came after Kiernan Harding earned a late penalty kick, but Cordwell's shot was well saved by the Rowdies keeper.

Strong finish is key to triumph

GOALS from Jack Higgs and Greg Strong sealed Haverhill Rovers' comeback as they inflicted a narrow defeat on CRC to return to winning ways after their defeat by Felixstowe in the previous match.

An even first half saw both sides have plenty of possession, but few chances were carved out on a heavy pitch.

Dan Cornwell went close with an audacious overhead kick, while, at the other end Rovers keeper Elliot Anderson saved a Lamell Howell shot.

Jack Higgs, on as a 16th-minute substitute for the injured Sam Holmes, tested CRC keeper Ben Cullingford before the break, and Callum Harrison also saw a shot stopped by the visiting custodian.

Marcus Hunt had a goalbound header blocked early in the second half, and CRC took the lead on the hour when a long-range free-kick by Liam Hurst was misjudged by Anderson and the ball somehow went under his body and into the net.

The villain turned hero a minute later when he produced a superb save from Sam Hope to keep it at 1-0 and his effort proved to be crucial as Rovers went on to turn the game around.

Higgs made it 1-1 with a 30-yard free-kick in the 65th minute and, with just over 10 minutes left, Strong put the hosts in front when he poked the ball home from close range following a goalmouth scramble after a Marc Abbott corner.

CRC finished strongly and both Hope and Hurst wasted chances to equalise.

Rovers' interim manager Ali Shulver said: "It was a good battle and a really good win. After the defeat to Felixstowe & Walton, it was really good to get back to winning ways.

"We didn't really take our chances in the first half.

"Once they took the lead I made a few changes and we began to get at them a bit more."

Rovers travel to Brantham in the Premier Division on Saturday.

Blackjacks ready for first pitch

AFTER months of hard work behind the scenes, Haverhill Blackjacks Baseball Club are ready to start their inaugural season in the British Baseball Federation A League.

The club take on players aged 14 years and above but also offer entry level baseball, the only one to do so in the region.

The exact make-up of the division is still to be confirmed but the Blackjacks' opponents are expected to include teams from Waltham Abbey, Enfield, Billericay, Hemel Hempstead, Finsbury Park, Tonbridge and Guildford.

The club has been set up by chairman Steven Esdale, who played, coached and worked behind the scenes at Braintree Rays before the club folded last year.

"After being part of Braintree Rays for so long I felt this was an ideal time to start something that could be beneficial for Haverhill, the surrounding area and those who are interested in taking the sport up," he said.

"Most people don't realise that baseball is available in the UK or how easy it is to get into."

Esdale started advertising for the club last spring and there are now 15 registered players – teams need at least nine – including four from Braintree Rays, four with football backgrounds, two from the RAF and five with no previous baseball experience.

More players are wanted though and Esdale urged anyone interested in getting involved to get in touch with him.

The Blackjacks have also forged a link with established outfit Cambridge Royals.

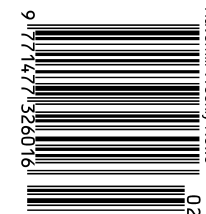

The two clubs will train indoors together before the start of the new season and possibly exchange players.

The team will play home matches at the New Croft.

Anyone interested in playing for the Blackjacks can contact Esdale on 01440 704049 or 07811 030564, or can email him at sesdale@yahoo.co.uk.
